

Certificate of Achievement for EAHC Website Revamping

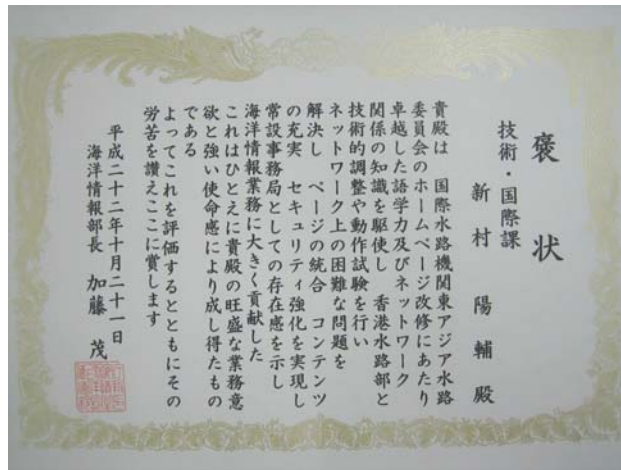

On 21 October 2010, Mr. Niimura, Assistant Officer of International Affairs Office, JHOD, was awarded a prize for his effort at revamping EAHC website by Chief Hydrographer of Japan.

Awarding Ceremony

This prize, “The Chief Hydrographer Prize”, is awarded several times a year to those who (a JHOD Officer or a task group for a certain project (i.e., Individual or Team)) contributed to great progress in hydrographic activities in order to make honorable recognition of his/her/its achievements. This time, he is the only man who won the prize individually.

As for this revamping project, he started to work in earnest in this May with the close cooperation of Hong Kong Hydrographic Office (HKHO), therefore, succeeded in building the new website in this July. JHOD executives considered that he deserved praise because his accomplishment greatly contributed to the EAHC activity and also prompted good relationships among the EAHC Member States. Thus, the certificate of merit / testimonial for the prize (below) was awarded to him.

Certificate of Achievement

*Awarded to Mr. Yosuke Niimura,
Technology Planning and International Affairs Division*

In the EAHC website revamping project, you had a good command of English, made a good use of knowledge of computer networks, cooperated closely with Hong Kong Hydrographic Office in reviewing the contents and testing, and overcame some difficulties on networking. Then, you succeeded in consolidating the website, improving the contents, and strengthening the website security. Thus, you could take an active part in the project as the Permanent Secretariat of the EAHC, and greatly contributed to the hydrographic activities.

It could be said that you owe this achievement wholly to your vigorous motivation and firm vocation for working.

Accordingly, regarding your accomplishment highly and admiring all of your efforts, I award this prize to you.
